

Reinvent Diplomacy in a Changing World

ABOUT US

In a world where global challenges are evolving faster than ever, from geopolitical shifts to technological disruptions and climate change, effective governance is essential to ensuring lasting peace, stability, and prosperity for all. The Paris Peace Forum stands at the forefront of this effort, striving to reinvent diplomacy in a changing world.

The Forum is a platform to originate, shape & share multiactor responses towards global peace & sustainable prosperity.

By convening key decision-makers and fostering collaboration between governments, international organizations, businesses, and civil society, we ensure that diplomacy is not just discussed but reinvented to meet the demands of a changing world.

At the heart of our work are the values that define us:

- Bridging divides
Bridging North-South and East-West divides in global governance.
- Multiactor Collaboration
Engaging diverse actors to create holistic solutions.
- Action-oriented
Ensuring that discussions lead to real-world impact.
- Independent
Upholding objectivity and credibility in all our initiatives.
- Open to Dialogue
Creating a space where differing views can be confronted constructively.

Mobilizing stakeholders for collective action

The Forum delivers on its mission through three core pillars:

1. Dialogue Platform

Through our annual Forum, roundtables, and private discussions, we convene actors to engage on hard topics, advance dialogues, and identify governance solutions where they are most needed.

2. Policy Incubation

Traditional diplomatic frameworks are struggling to respond to the complexity of today's challenges—from the war in Ukraine and rising populism to climate overshoot and governing artificial intelligence. For issues not adequately addressed in global governance, we develop initiatives, build coalitions, drive consensus, and amplify efforts to create lasting policy change.

3. Projects

We leverage our global community to mentor local actors and accelerate on-the-ground projects, ensuring that dialogues are grounded in real-world action and tangible outcomes.

As we navigate an era of unprecedented challenges, the Paris Forum is committed to reinventing diplomacy.

By fostering inclusive dialogues, incubating innovative policies, and accelerating concrete solutions through the projects we support, we strive to build a more peaceful and prosperous world for all.

POLICY INITIATIVES

The Forum serves as an incubator and platform of new global governance policy initiatives on topics such as climate change, energy transition, global health, agriculture and nutrition systems, digital and outer space issues, and artificial intelligence. Each initiative pioneers new forms of cooperation between governments, international organizations, civil society and businesses to deliver concrete results.

Environment and climate

Climate change is accelerating at a fast pace with disastrous consequences worldwide, requiring immediate large-scale mobilization and effective action to carry out solutions to save life on the planet. In this context, the Paris Peace Forum puts forward actionable solutions to steer global cooperation towards a greener and more sustainable path for all.

Reinventing development

Persistent inequalities and development challenges continue to hinder global progress, making the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) more urgent than ever. From poverty and food security to education and healthcare, collective action is needed to build a more inclusive and resilient future.

In this context, the Paris Peace Forum promotes concrete solutions to accelerate sustainable development and foster international cooperation to leave no one behind.

Emerging technologies

In today's fast-changing world, technology brings both opportunities and challenges. AI can transform economies but raises ethical and security concerns, while cyber threats and online harms demand stronger governance. Beyond the digital sphere, issues like space debris endanger satellites and future exploration.

The Paris Peace Forum promotes global cooperation to ensure innovation serves humanity while mitigating risks, fostering a more secure and sustainable future.

The background image shows a large, crowded exhibition space, likely the Paris Peace Forum. Numerous wooden display boards are set up, each featuring a different project or organization. Some visible logos include Google, World Justice Project, and EarthSR. The boards are covered with text, diagrams, and images. People are seen walking through the aisles, looking at the displays, and talking to each other. The lighting is warm and focused on the displays. The title 'THE PROJECTS' is overlaid in large, white, sans-serif capital letters on the left side of the image.

THE PROJECTS

The Paris Peace Forum continues to demonstrate that in a deteriorated international environment, it is still possible to advance governance solutions, scale up projects and launch new initiatives.

SHOWCASING PROJECTS: THE SPACE FOR SOLUTIONS

During its annual event in November, the PPF provides a “one-stop-shop” called the “Space for Solutions” where selected project leaders get to showcase and pitch their solution to participants, including to high-level personalities, decision makers, experts and practitioners, the media, and potential partners and funders. The event offers a public platform for project teams to gain visibility and numerous networking opportunities.

BOOSTING PROJECTS: THE SCALE-UP PROGRAM

Each year since 2018, ten of the projects showcased at the annual Forum are selected to benefit from the Scale-up program (SCUP), an accelerator that mobilizes resources from the Forum’s Secretariat and its network to help strengthen and grow these solutions and amplify their impact. The SCUP helps to better equip project teams for impact at scale through monthly calls with high-level mentors and peer-learning workshops.
