THE PARIS PEACE FORUM GOES FULLY DIGITAL

Third edition of the Paris Peace Forum: a new digital experience

Due to the Covid-19 pandemic’s resurgence, the third edition of the Paris Peace Forum will be held in digital format.

A unique platform, specifically designed to replicate the physical experience and enable a full event to be held in times of pandemic, will allow more than 10,000 participants to take part in the 2020 edition of the Forum.

The only remaining physical session will see several heads of state and international organization gather around President Emmanuel Macron to work on a collective response to Covid-19. This key meeting will also be broadcast on the Forum’s platform:

"While the initial plan was designed to strictly comply with health regulations and restrictions, we have chosen a zero risk approach to avoid any potential contamination. As a result, no guests, speakers, journalists or members of the public will be present at la Grande Halle de La Villette.

This year’s Forum is devoted to the response to the crisis and the principles that should govern the post-Covid international order. It also focuses on projects and initiatives from around the world aimed at providing immediate responses to the Covid-19 pandemic, improving our medium-term resilience, and rebuilding a more sustainable world.

In a context that calls for more international coordination than ever before, it is necessary to maintain this year’s sole opportunity for high-level meetings and exchanges between actors in global governance on the most critical issues of the moment."

- Justin Vaïsse, Director General of the Paris Peace Forum
Participate online for a unique immersive experience

A historical moment to build the post-crisis world

All registered participants will be able to participate in a historical moment alongside French President Emmanuel Macron, WHO Director-General Dr. Tedros Ghebreyesus, IMF Managing Director Kristalina Georgieva, former US Secretary of State John Kerry, and other global governance actors.

Online participation in this third edition offers exclusive access to the event’s full program and attending personalities. More than a simple window on what’s happening in Paris, the specially developed digital platform offers participants from all corners of the globe the same opportunities for networking and exchange that have made the Forum a success these past two years.

Far more than a video stream: a full interactive experience

From the comfort of their home, online participants will be fully immersed, with a direct connection to interact live with the entirety of the rich debate program, exchange with high-level personalities, access dynamic networking tools, explore the 100 initiatives selected to respond to today’s greatest challenges in the Space for Solutions, and much more!

Request your accreditation today

The Paris Peace Forum

In 2020, the world faces a health crisis with dramatic consequences that know no borders and calls for collective solutions. Yet international coordination is at a loss, while short-term national calculations and lack of solidarity, especially with developing countries, take precedence.

The Paris Peace Forum was created to respond to this multilateralism crisis, which is not new but has sharply increased in 2020. Given the scale of the challenges before us, the Forum will devote its third edition to projects and initiatives from around the world aimed at providing immediate responses to the Coronavirus crisis, improving our resilience in the medium term, and rebuilding a more sustainable world.

Ten days after the American election and ten days before the G20 Summit in Riyadh, the third edition of the Paris Peace Forum will be the largest gathering of all actors involved in responding to the crisis, from 11 to 13 November 2020.
All international cooperation stakeholders gathered around concrete solutions in November

Discover the third edition’s speakers

Press contacts

Media@parispeaceforum.org

Nicolo Conti | Communications Director
nicolo.conti@parispeaceforum.org

Amanda Mehtala | Communications Manager
amanda.mehtala@parispeaceforum.org